President's Corner

From my perspective and from that of most of us I would think, the Camp Blanding Picnic was really a great success. Members old and new hung out on the shore of Kingsley Lake for four hours or so and got acquainted and everyone was invited to share their Triumph experience.

Upon reflection, it is a shame that it takes a phone call to all members to get 30 / 35 to a Club event. Mike and Sheila Morgan, yes they were married a couple of months ago (Mike is not sure of the date!), are to be congratulated for the organization, which was severely tested when they arrived at the picnic area to find that barbecue grills "had been discontinued". Only two Triumphs were on show, rather understandable I would say. Also, this is the one event where my drive, over an hour and a half each way, is invariably punctuated by turning the engine off a time or two at long red lights or railroad crossings.

Bob and Carol Lavender have a "nearly finished" TR6 and so Club members will fix a date to pop over and fill his garage with willing helpers to accelerate its entry to the highway. Stay tuned and watch the calendar for the Lavenders, especially you 6 owners please.

Did you see that China is going to reintroduce the MG? And even build it here in N. America as well as two other locations? I just hope they tie in a retrospective look rather than use an MG badge on something unrecognizable; maybe that is why I am not in marketing. I should be so lucky to be accused of plagiarism, but Classic Motorsports is keeping us up to date with gossip that BMW, who owns the Triumph marque, might, MIGHT be considering the return of a Triumph roadster based on MINI mechanicals, while styling would come from both Stag and TR4. Well, they have the necessary service network established at a hundred or more Mini dealers nationwide.

A reminder that there is a Production Record Trace Service at the British Motor Industry Heritage Trust whereby you can find out the specs., color and to whom your car was exported, dates and so forth. It is all based on the Commission number of course and you get a nice Certificate with all the details. Go to www.heritage.org.uk or E mail me and I can send you the application form. Cost is about $50.
